2. Colour hierarchy and usage

The system should feel tropical and feminine without becoming visually noisy. Use bright colours as signals, not as constant background treatment.

Recommended visual balance
50%	Shell Cream + Pure White
20%	Zanzibar Turquoise + Ocean Sky
15%	SHE-CATION Pink
10%	Midnight Navy
5%	Sunshine Yellow + small accents

Use these combinations	Primary website roles
• White text on SHE-CATION Pink. • White text on Pink Hover. • Midnight Navy text on Zanzibar Turquoise. • Midnight Navy text on Sunshine Yellow. • Midnight Navy text on Shell Cream or Sand. • Pink accents on Cream, Sand or White.	• Pink: conversion and brand action. • Turquoise: destination and experience. • Navy: trust, information and readability. • Cream/Sand: space, comfort and premium calm. • Yellow: joy, urgency and small highlights. • White: clarity and breathing room.

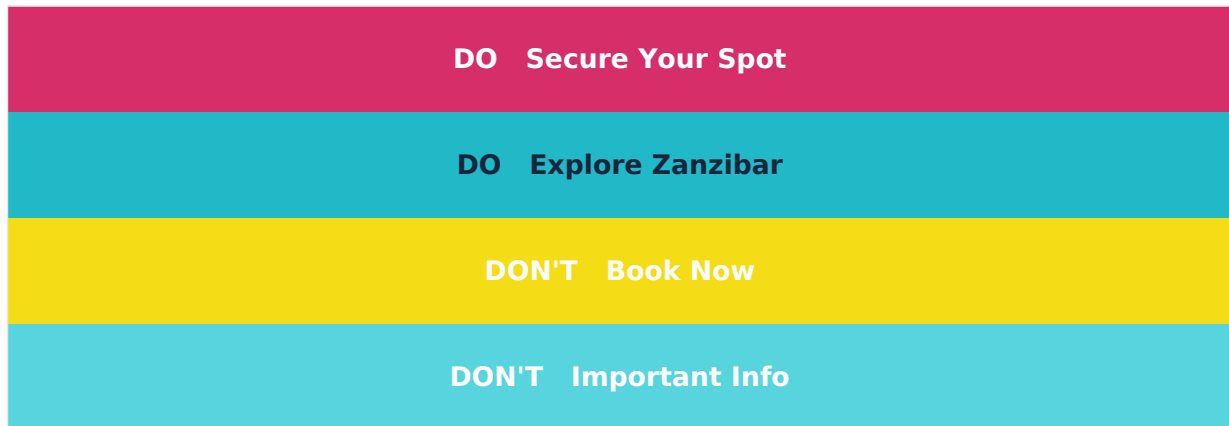

CTA system

Primary CTA	Background #D52E68	Text #FFFFFF
Hover / pressed	Background #B91F56	Text #FFFFFF
Secondary CTA	Background #21B8C7	Text #18263D
Outline CTA	Transparent	Border/text #D52E68

3. Do-not-use examples

Avoid poor contrast	Avoid visual dilution
• Yellow text on white or cream. • White body text on Ocean Sky. • Pink text on turquoise. • Pale text over busy beach photography. • Sand text on cream.	• Do not make whole pages hot pink. • Do not use yellow as a competing primary CTA. • Do not introduce random greens, purples or oranges. • Do not add unapproved turquoise or pink shades. • Do not use more than two bright accents in one content block.

Quick examples

Final design principle: The brand should feel tropical and feminine without looking childish, cluttered or overly promotional. Let imagery and whitespace carry the destination. Let pink drive conversion. Let navy protect clarity and trust.
